

GOONJ CONTRIBUTION DRIVE

In recent years, there has been an increasing emphasis on sustainable living, including reducing waste and recycling. One of the areas where individuals and communities can make a significant impact is in the recycling of old books and materials. Donating old books and materials for recycling is an effective way to reduce waste and conserve resources. JKPS and Jaspalians understand the need of the hour and fully commit themselves to work towards promoting equal opportunities for education.

The Goonj contribution campaign was organized by JKPS on session end and was focused on raising funds for the education and healthcare of children who are not as privileged. The campaign aimed to provide study material and support in forms of stationery items, old lunch boxes, water bottles and other things of daily use, education and support to children living in remote areas where access to basic facilities is a challenge.

The contribution campaign was a great success, and it received overwhelming support from students, teachers, and parents. The campaign was able to raise a substantial amount of funds and materials that were contributed to Goonj. The campaign also helped create awareness among students about the challenges faced by children living in poverty and the need to support them.
