Class Assembly on World Autism Awareness Day

The students of Class XA conducted a thoughtful and enlightening assembly on the occasion of World Autism Awareness Day, with the aim of spreading awareness, compassion, and inclusivity for individuals on the autism spectrum. The assembly was held on 21 April 2025 in the school assembly hall, graced by the presence of the Principal, teachers, and students of various classes.

The assembly commenced with warm and respectful greetings by the student anchors, setting a positive and inclusive tone for the program. This was followed by a soulful Shabad recital, invoking divine blessings and encouraging mindfulness and empathy, values deeply connected to the spirit of the day. To inspire the audience, the Thought of the Day focused on the importance of understanding and embracing neurodiversity. This was followed by the introduction of two new words, explained with examples to enhance the vocabulary and understanding of the students.

The highlight of the assembly was a powerful skit performed by the students of Class XA. Through emotional storytelling and relatable characters, the skit depicted the journey of a child with autism, challenges faced, and the support offered by inclusive communities. It was an eye-opener and struck a chord with everyone in the audience. Following the skit, a discussion on common myths and facts about autism was conducted by a group of students. This informative segment busted several stereotypes and provided factual knowledge to promote a more supportive school environment. A heartwarming song on the theme of inclusion and unity in diversity was then performed, reinforcing the message that everyone deserves to be seen, heard, and loved for who they are.

The Principal's address was a motivating one, where she appreciated the efforts of the students in organizing such a meaningful assembly. She emphasized the importance of empathy, inclusivity, and understanding differences as strengths. The event also included the felicitation of students who had recently won prizes and accolades in various inter-school competitions. Their achievements were celebrated with applause, instilling a sense of pride and motivation among all. The assembly concluded with the rendition of the National Anthem, filling the air with patriotism and unity.

Overall, the assembly was a beautiful blend of awareness, creativity, and celebration. It left a lasting impression on the audience and successfully promoted the message of acceptance and inclusion.
